COMMENTS: Melissa Gagen, Head of Christie's European Furniture Department: "We were thrilled with the performance of today's sale which included a number of interesting private collections. Bidding was strong from both trade and private buyers throughout the sale confirming a healthy market. The top price was achieved by a pair of George III marquetry commodes, unusual in their small size and sinuous in form. The morning session comprising the property of Villa San Maurizio was highlighted by strong sales of two modern British paintings, including a new world auction record for Harold Harvey and a top price for Edward Seago. We look forward to our next sales in May including a selection of French and English furniture from the pre-eminent London dealers Partridge."
