Michael Clark Biography

For almost twenty-five years Michael Clark has been redefining the nature and limits of contemporary dance. Combining rigorously controlled choreography and head-thumping, heart-pumping music he has radicalised dance's relationship to itself and to its audience. Born in Aberdeen, Scotland, in 1962, he began traditional Scottish dancing at the age of four and went on to win numerous awards and trophies at Highland gatherings. In 1975 he left home to study at The Royal Ballet School in London. By 1982, aged just 20 he staged the first public concert of his own choreography, at London's Riverside Studios. He became resident choreographer at Riverside and by 1984 Clark had made 16 original pieces for himself, his friends, and various small-scale companies. Michael Clark and Company was launched the same year.

In 2005 Michael Clark became an Artistic Associate of the Barbican London. His current project is the  Stravinsky Project Part 1 which was premiered on 1st November 2005 and marks the first of three projects centred around 'Apollo', 'The Rite of Spring' and 'Les Noces' by Igor Stravinsky. Over the next three years the Barbican will co-produce a new production each year, which will form part of the company's touring repertoire.
