Comment: Cornelia Svedman, Head of Sale, Impressionist and Modern Art Works on Paper, Christie's

London: "Reflecting the strength of demand for Impressionist and Modern Works on Paper, this sale realised the highest total for the category in London since February 2008 and secured 66% market share against our nearest competitor for the UK June auction series. Seven of the top ten works were offered at auction for the first time, illustrating the importance and appetite for lots which are fresh to the market. The sale was led by an exemplary Schiele drawing from the height of the artist's oeuvre. Buyers continue to compete particularly fiercely for colourful Modern works by Miró, Picasso and Chagall. The market responded well to the rare opportunity presented by the complete set of scenes from the Odyssey by Dalí (lot 247 - 263) which realised a combined total of £1,480,350."
