Jeremy Morrison, Senior Director, 20/21 Design, Christie's London:

"The sale of the collection of David Collins was an outstanding success. It garnered a huge amount of press and enquiries from around the world in advance of the sale and the depth and scale of appreciation for David Collins and his signature style is reflected in the extraordinary performance of the auction. With over 35 telephone lines in use and a packed saleroom, every lot was admired and competed over by private clients and collectors who came to us via our network of international offices and representatives. It is fantastic that people appreciated both his eye for collecting major 20th century designers and also for spotting sought after works by contemporary designers, both of which feature so prominently in the top ten".
